

DESIGN + MANUFACTURE

Design is the process of solving new problems or improve existing solutions.

Whilst every individual designer, project team or company will have their own particular ways of working, they will broadly follow the same steps to achieve a working solution. We call these steps the 'Design Process'

You will need to remember the design process for your exams and use the design process to create solutions to various problems whilst studying Design & Manufacture.

